

Healing and Exorcism in Second Temple Judaism and Early Christianity

Edited by Mikael Tellbe and Tommy Wasserman

[Healing and Exorcism in Second Temple Judaism and Early Christianity]

Published in English.

This volume, originating from a conference on »Healing and Exorcism in Second Temple Judaism and Early Christianity« hosted by Örebro School of Theology (Sweden) in 2018, deals with the ideological and theological meaning of healing and exorcism in a historical, literary, and socio-cultural perspective. While the first part of the book focuses on Jewish and early Christian texts and themes, the second centres on the transmission, reception and interpretation of the biblical texts in early Christian writings and artefacts.

Mikael Tellbe Born 1960; Academic Dean and Lecturer in New Testament Studies at Örebro School of Theology, Sweden.

Ludvig Nyman Born 1988; PhD student at Lund University and part-time Lecturer in New Testament Studies at Örebro School of Theology, Sweden.

Tommy Wasserman Born 1970; Professor of Biblical Studies at Ansgar Teologiske Høgskole, Kristiansand, Norway.
