

Jan Dochhorn

Der Adammythos bei Paulus und im hellenistischen Judentum Jerusalems

Eine theologische und religionsgeschichtliche Studie zu Römer 7,7-25

Adam, sin, death and the law are the core elements of Paul's view of the pre-Christian history of humankind. Paul developed this view using the Apocalypse of Moses, with which he had become familiar in Jerusalem before he became a Christian, as his background. In this study, Jan Dochhorn reveals how the myth of Adam emerged among the Greek-speaking Jews in Jerusalem and identifies several parabiblical texts as products of this milieu, which probably had a greater impact on Pauline theology and early Christianity than other strands of ancient Judaism.

Jan Dochhorn Geboren 1968; 2003 Promotion; 2007-14 Associate Professor für Neues Testament in Aarhus; Senior Lecturer/Associate Professor für Neues Testament in Durham (Vereinigtes Königreich).

2021. XVI, 722 pages. WUNT I 469

ISBN 978-3-16-160096-8
cloth €199.00

ISBN 978-3-16-160097-5
DOI 10.1628/978-3-16-160097-5
eBook PDF €199.00

Order now:

<https://www.mohrsiebeck.com/en/book/der-adammythos-bei-paulus-und-im-hellenistischen-judentum-jerusalem-9783161600968/>

Phone: +49 (0)7071-923-17

Fax: +49 (0)7071-51104